

About Our Authors

Benson Chen (Industrial Innovation Systems in Service Platform Enabled Manufacturing Specialization) is the C.E.O. of Vignorain Company. After working in High-Tech industries in Taiwan for over twenty years, he started his academic life. He received his Ph.D. degree at the Institute of Management of Technology, National Chiao Tung University, Taiwan in 2008. His recent interests include product strategy of high-tech firms, innovation policy, and business strategy.

Chi-Kuang Chen (Choosing and Evaluating a High-Quality Retirement Home in Taiwan) Professor of Department of Industrial Engineering and Management, Yuan Ze University and teaches Industrial Organizational and Management, Research Methodologies, Group Decision Analysis and Behavioral Decision Analysis. He completed his Ph.D. degree at Industrial Engineering, University of Wisconsin at Madison in 1996. His research areas include Organization Management, Service System Design, Behavioral Decision Analysis, Group Decision Analysis and Total Quality Management. His research have been published at Journal of Management, Journal of Quality, International Journal of Production Research, Journal of Chinese Institute of Industrial Engineers, Group Decision and Negotiation, Total Quality Management and Business Excellence, etc.

Chien-Fu Patrick Chen (The Influence of Applications on Online Auctions) is a PhD student at the Graduate School of Business and Operations Management, Change Jung Christian University, Taiwan. He received his MBA from National Cheng Kung University, Taiwan. His future research fields are accounting, accounting and information systems, and patents.

Chun-Hsi Vivian Chen (Relationship of Knowledge Management Activities and Effectiveness among High-tech Companies in Taiwan) is an assistant professor in the Department of Business Administration, National Central University, Taiwan. She received her Ph.D. from the University of Southern California in Public Administration. Her research interests include transformational leadership, organizational citizenship behavior, and public management.

Po-Shun Chen (Relationship of Knowledge Management Activities and Effectiveness among High-tech Companies in Taiwan) is a doctoral student (Phd candidate) in the Institute of Business Administration, National Central University, Taiwan. His major research interests are human resource management, entrepreneurship, leadership and knowledge management. He is also an entrepreneurship consultant for the Taiwan government as the Small and Medium Enterprise Administration, Ministry of Economic Affairs and the Bureau of Employment and Vocational Training, Council of Labor Affairs. And a lecture teaches in the department of marketing and logistics management, Chaoyang University of Technology and the center for general education, National United University.

Yin-Tsuo Huang (Relationships among Transformational Leadership, Subordinate Maturity, Capability and Strategy, and their Implications) is a post doc at the Department of Business Administration, and project manager at Executive Master of Business Administration and Advanced Master Business Administration, College of Management, National Cheng Kung University, Taiwan and an Assistant Professor at Department of Commercial Business, College of Continuing Education Affiliated, National Taichung Institute of Technology. His research focuses on knowledge management, project management, strategy management, family business, and leadership. He also participated in the operation of a family business (management and labor relations).

Yuan-Duen Lee (The Influence of Applications on Online Auctions) is a professor of HRM/OB and the Dean of the College of Management at Chang Jung Christian University, Taiwan. He received his MBA from National Cheng Kung University and his EdD from Drake University, Iowa, USA. His papers have been published in numerous reputed journals such as Management Review and The New Jersey Journal of Communication. He is also on the editorial board of six journals.

Joan Scialli (Relationships among Transformational Leadership, Subordinate Maturity, Capability and Strategy, and their Implications) presently holds the honorary title of University Professor, Office of Academic Affairs at Lynn University, where she is a full time faculty. Dr. Scialli has more than 25 years of experience in academia in positions of coordinator, division head, grants coordinator, Dean, College of Health Science, Director Institutional Planning, Research, Institutional Effectiveness; Chair, Regional Accreditation; and PhD Program Coordinator in Global Leadership, Educational Leadership, and Corporate and Organizational Management. In addition to academic positions in small private and large public institutions of higher education, Dr. Scialli also participated in the operation of a family business (large grocery store- marketing, accounting, labor relations, personnel management), and practiced as a nurse practitioner.

Joseph Z. Shyu (Industrial Innovation Systems in Service Platform Enabled Manufacturing Specialization) received his Ph.D. degree in Analytical Chemistry from University of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, in 1982. He also received an MBA degree from the Illinois Institute of Technology in 1992. After working in several industries including automobile, oil, chemical, and venture capital in the USA for over 10 years, he returned to Taiwan in 1993, holding a position of professor in the Institute of Technology of Management in National Chiao-Tung University. His recent research interests include national innovation system, high-tech industry analysis, strategic planning, management of high-tech services, and global marketing strategy. His research results had published in some international journals including "Technological Forecasting and Social Change", "Technovation", and "R&D Management".

Kenneth Hsi-Che Wang (Choosing and Evaluating a High-Quality Retirement Home in Taiwan) Assistant Professor, Department of Business Administration, Lunghwa University of Science and Technology. Kenneth majors in Marketing (With emphasis on Consumer Behavior) and teaches Marketing Management, Consumer Behavior, Internet Marketing and Electronic Commerce. He completed his Ph.D. degree at Graduate School of Management, Yuan Ze University at Taiwan in 2007. His research areas include Elderly Consumer Behavior, Elderly Care Service, Internet Marketing and Marketing Strategy. His researches have been published at Journal of Information Management and Journal of Nan Kai, etc.

Chia-Han Yang (Industrial Innovation Systems in Service Platform Enabled Manufacturing Specialization) received his Bachelor degree in Power Mechanic Engineering from National Tsing-Hua University in 1998, a Master degree in Mechanic Engineering in National Taiwan University in 2000, and another Master degree in Management of Technology from National Chiao-Tung University, in 2006. He is now a Ph.D. candidate at the Institute of Management of Technology, National Chiao-Tung University. He also spent two years in an international patent firm as a senior patent engineer from 2003 to 2004. Now, his recent research interests include policy and industry analysis, open innovation & high-tech services, and national innovation system.